7. Upon information and belief, pursuant to the U.S. Constitution and N.C. Gen. Stat. 8. Venue is proper in the Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391(b) and 1400 because InVue has its principal place of business in this district, MTI has committed acts of infringement in this district, and MTI is subject to personal jurisdiction here.

Patent-in-Suit

9. On October 25, 2016, the United States Patent and Trademark Office duly and legally issued the '110 patent, entitled “Programmable Security System and Method for Protecting Merchandise.” True and accurate copies of the Issue Notification for the '110 patent and allowed claims of the '110 patent are attached as Exhibit A.<sup>1</sup>

10. The patent-in-suit describes an invention that advanced the art and relates to methods of protecting merchandise and programmable security systems that can include in certain embodiments, for example, at least one key that is programmed in a retail store with a unique security code that is not chosen by a person, and at least one security device programmed in a retail store with the unique security code and including an alarm and a memory for storing the unique security code. The security code is configured to be attached to an item of merchandise and is configured to activate an alarm in response to the integrity of the security device being compromised. The at least one key is configured to control the at least one security device in the retail store upon a matching of the unique security code programmed in the key with the unique security code programmed in the security device. Various embodiments with additional or different features are also described.

11. InVue is the owner of all rights, title, and interest in the patent-in-suit including the right to bring this suit for injunctive relief and damages.

12. InVue has not authorized MTI or its customers to manufacture, offer to sell, sell, use, or import any product or method covered by the patent-in-suit.

13. InVue has complied with the marking requirements of 35 U.S.C. § 287 for the patent-in-suit.

Defendant's Infringing Activities

14. Upon information and belief, MTI has infringed, and continues to infringe, the patent-in-suit by making, using, offering for sale, selling, and/or importing products, namely security systems, that practice the invention of the patent-in-suit (hereinafter the "Accused Products") and by inducing its customers to use the Accused Products.

15. The Accused Products include, by way of example and not limitation, programmable security systems having at least one key that is programmed in a retail store with a unique security code that is not chosen by a person. The Accused Products also include at least one security device programmed in the retail store with the unique security code. The security device includes an alarm and a memory for storing the unique security code. The security device activates an alarm if the integrity of the security device is compromised. The key controls the security device in the retail store upon a matching of the unique security code programmed in the key with the unique security code programmed in the security device.

16. MTI has used various names for the Accused Products as well as components of the Accused Products including, without limitation, devices and components MTI refers to as the "Freedom Micro", "Freedom Micro DI", "Intellikey Gen 2", "Gen2 Intellikey Starter Kit", "Intellikey Gen 2", "Multiple Code Processor", "MCP", "Freedom LP4", "LP4", "Intelligent Switch Module", "ISM", such other security devices and components that function in a similar manner and operate with an Intellikey and MCP, such others operating as described above in preceding Paragraph 15, and as may be further identified during this action.

17. MTI's customers use the Accused Products in the U.S. including, for example, use by one or more retailers in the State of North Carolina.

18. The Accused Products and use of the Accused Products by MTI and MTI's customers embodies and practices the invention claimed in the patent-in-suit.

19. MTI has constructive knowledge of the patent-in-suit at least through InVue's compliance with the marking requirements of 35 U.S.C. § 287 for the patent-in-suit.

20. MTI has had actual knowledge of the '110 patent since at least the date on which MTI received the Complaint in this action.

COUNT 1

First Cause of Action: Direct Infringement of U.S. Patent No. 9,478,110

21. InVue incorporates by reference the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

22. MTI's manufacture, offer for sale, sale, importation, and/or use of the Accused Products in the United States directly infringes the '110 patent.

23. MTI's manufacture, offer for sale, sale, importation, and/or use of the Accused Products infringes, for example, at least claim 1 of the '110 patent.

24. One or more of the Accused Products, for example, includes a programmable security system that protects items of merchandise from theft. This programmable security system includes at least one key (referred to sometimes by MTI as an "Intellikey") that is programmed in a retail store with a unique security code. The unique security code is not chosen by a person. Instead, a device referred to sometimes by MTI as a "Multiple Code Processor" or "MCP") generates the unique security code.

25. Such programmable security system also includes at least one security device that, for some of the Accused Products, is referred to by MTI as a "puck". The security device is programmed in the retail store with the unique security code, and the security device has an alarm and a memory for storing at least the unique security code. The security devices can be attached to an item of merchandise and will activate an alarm if the integrity of the security device is compromised by, for example, tampering with the security device or removing the item of merchandise from the security device.

26. The programmable key of MTI's programmable security system will control the security device in the retail store upon a matching of the unique security code programmed in the key with the unique security code programmed in the security device.

27. MTI's direct infringement of the '110 patent causes financial damages to InVue, including for example, lost sales revenue caused by MTI's sales of the Accused Products.

28. MTI's direct infringement of the '110 patent irreparably damages InVue, including for example, avoiding InVue's right to exclude others from making, using, selling, or offering to sell products embodying the invention patented in the '110 patent.

29. MTI's direct infringement of the '110 patent will continue unless enjoined by the Court under 35 U.S.C. § 283 and/or the equitable powers of the Court.

30. MTI has had actual knowledge of the '110 patent since at least the date on which MTI received the Complaint in this action.

31. MTI's direct infringement of the '110 patent constitutes willful infringement because such continues to proceed despite an objectively high likelihood that its conduct infringes valid claims of the '110 patent, and this likelihood is either known to MTI or so obvious that MTI should have known that its conduct infringed valid claims of the '110 patent.

COUNT 2

Second Cause of Action: Contributory Infringement of U.S. Patent No. 9,478,110

32. InVue incorporates by reference the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

33. MTI has had actual knowledge of the '110 patent since at least the date on which MTI received the Complaint in this action.

34. Upon information and belief, MTI has had actual knowledge that the '110 patent would issue on October 25, 2016 because the application that resulted in the '110 patent and its file history in the United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) were publicly available on the USPTO's Public Application Information Retrieval website beginning on June 9, 2016, the date of publication of the application, and the Issue Notification attached as Exhibit A, was publicly available on October 5, 2016. Because the '110 patent issued from an application that was a continuation of one or more applications, which include applications that are now United States Patent No. 9,269,247 (the '247 patent), United States Patent 9,135,800 (the '800 patent) and United States Patent 8,884,762 (the '762 patent), which are all asserted against MTI in Civil Action Nos. 3:15-cv-00610 and 3:16-cv-00553, currently pending in the U.S. District Court for the Western District of North Carolina, and because the written description and drawings of the '110 patent describe exemplary embodiments of the inventions also described in the '247 patent, the '800 patent, and the '762 patent, upon information and belief, MTI would have monitored the prosecution of the application that resulted in the '110 patent and been aware of its issuance on October 25, 2016.

35. The Accused Products are configured only for infringing use as programmable security systems protecting items of merchandise. For example, the Accused Products include one or more security devices that are configured only for purposes of attachment to an item of merchandise to protect the item of merchandise from theft and are used with programmable keys programmed in a retail store with a unique security code not chosen by a person.

36. The Accused Products are not staple articles of commerce.

37. The Accused Products are not suitable for substantial non-infringing use.

38. The Accused Products are especially made or especially adapted for use in an infringement of the '110 patent.

39. The use of the Accused Products by MTI's customers constitutes direct infringement of the '110 patent.

40. On information and belief, MTI knows that the Accused Products are not staple articles of commerce, are not suitable for substantial non-infringing use, and are especially made or adapted for use in a manner that infringes InVue's patent rights associated with the '110 patent.

41. MTI's actions constitute contributory infringement of the '110 patent.

42. MTI's contributory infringement of the '110 patent causes financial damages to InVue, including for example, lost sales revenue caused by MTI's sales of the Accused Products.

43. MTI's contributory infringement of the '110 patent irreparably damages InVue, including for example, avoiding InVue's right to exclude others from making, using, selling, or offering to sell products embodying the invention patented in the '110 patent.

44. MTI's contributory infringement of the '110 patent will continue unless enjoined by the Court under 35 U.S.C. § 283 and/or the equitable powers of the Court.

45. MTI's contributory infringement of the '110 patent is willful infringement because such continues to proceed despite an objectively high likelihood that its conduct infringes valid claims of the '110 patent, and this likelihood is either known to MTI or so obvious that MTI should have known that its conduct infringed valid claims of the '110 patent.

COUNT 3

Third Cause of Action: Inducement Infringement of U.S. Patent No. 9,478,110

46. InVue incorporates by reference the allegations of paragraphs 1 through 20 and 21 through 31 as if fully set forth herein.

47. MTI has had actual knowledge of the '110 patent since at least the date on which MTI received service the Complaint in this action.

48. Upon information and belief, MTI has had actual knowledge that the '110 patent would issue on October 25, 2016 because the application that resulted in the '110 patent and its file history in the United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) were publicly available on the USPTO's Public Application Information Retrieval website beginning on June 9, 2016, the date of publication of the application, and the Issue Notification attached as Exhibit A, was publicly available on October 5, 2016. Because the '110 patent issued from an application that was a continuation of one or more applications, which include applications that are now United States Patent No. 9,269,247 (the '247 patent), United States Patent 9,135,800 (the '800 patent) and United States Patent 8,884,762 (the '762 patent), which are all asserted against MTI in Civil Action No. 3:15-cv-00610 and 3:16-cv-00553 currently pending in the U.S. District Court for the Western District of North Carolina, and because the written description and drawings of the '110 patent describe exemplary embodiments of the inventions also described in the '247 patent, the '800 patent, and the '762 patent, upon information and belief, MTI would have monitored the prosecution of the application that resulted in the '110 patent and been aware of its issuance on October 25, 2016.

49. MTI sells and continues to sell the Accused Products to its customers with the intent that its customers will use and operate the Accused Products in the United States in a manner that infringes the '110 patent.

50. MTI provides its customers with instructions regarding the infringing use and operation of the Accused Products in the United States.

51. Upon information and belief, MTI trains its customers in the infringing use and operation of the Accused Products in the United States.

52. Upon information and belief, MTI has observed its customers using and operating the Accused Products in the United States in an infringing manner.

53. Upon information and belief, MTI is aware or should have known that use and operation of the Accused Products in the United States by MTI or its customers would directly infringe the '110 patent.

54. MTI's actions to aid and abet its customers to directly infringe the '110 patent with knowledge that use of the Accused Products in the United States would directly infringe the '110 patent constitutes inducement infringement.

55. MTI's inducement infringement of the '110 patent causes financial damages to InVue, including for example, lost sales revenue caused by MTI's sales of the Accused Products.

56. MTI's inducement infringement of the '110 patent irreparably damages InVue, including for example, avoiding InVue's right to exclude others from making, using, selling, or offering to sell products embodying the invention patented in the '110 patent.

57. MTI's inducement infringement of the '110 patent will continue unless enjoined by the Court under 35 U.S.C. § 283 and/or the equitable powers of the Court.

58. MTI's inducement infringement of the '110 patent is willful infringement because such continues to proceed despite an objectively high likelihood that its conduct infringes valid claims of the '110 patent, and this likelihood is either known to MTI or so obvious that MTI should have known that its conduct infringed valid claims of the '110 patent.
