NATURE OF THE ACTION

COUNT I – PATENT INFRINGEMENT

9. Plaintiff refers to and incorporates herein the allegations of Paragraphs 1-8 above.

10. The ‘696 patent was duly and legally issued by the United States Patent and Trademark Office on January 9, 2007 after full and fair examination. Plaintiff is the owner by assignment of the ‘696 patent and possesses all rights of recovery under the ‘696 patent, including the exclusive right to sue for infringement and recover past damages and obtain injunctive relief.

11. Defendant owns, uses, operates, advertises, controls, sells, and otherwise provides systems, methods and apparatus that infringe the ‘696 patent. The ‘696 patent provides, among other things, “a Multifunctional Hot Spot method comprising: defining at least one hot spot by a communication with instructions stored on a tangible retaining medium; accessing at least one of the hot spots from a globally accessible network; performing at least one of a plurality of predetermined functions executed with the selection of each particular hot spot; wherein said hot spots reside on and are accessible from a digital video or audio file; wherein said predetermined functions are selected from a mode control; wherein the mode control comprises a plurality of modes; wherein the plurality of modes comprise a shop mode, a bid mode, an interact mode, an entertainment mode, and a link mode; wherein a specific mode is selected by a user through an expandable graphical user interface bar; wherein said specific mode further toggles based on time stamps in said digital video or digital audio file; wherein said hot spots are visualized by outlines, shading, or illumination or a combination of each, at a predetermined area on the display; wherein said Multifunctional Hot Spot apparatus is made to reside on and is executing on a computing system; selecting and activating at least one of said predetermined functions by clicking on each particular Multifunctional Hot Spot.”

12. Defendant has been and is now infringing the ‘696 patent in the State of Delaware, in this judicial district, and elsewhere in the United States, by, among other things, directly or through intermediaries, making, using, importing, testing, providing, supplying, distributing, selling, and/or offering for sale systems, methods and apparatus (including, without limitation, the Defendant’s products including Facebook Stories Ads, Instagram Stories Ads and related functionality identified herein as the “Accused Instrumentality”) that provide a methods, apparatus and systems for creating, using and modifying multifunctional website hotspots including software that identifies, programs and activates hot spots with a plurality of functions wherein the functions include a shopping mode for selecting and purchasing items on a website or in a video, a digital call mode for facilitating videoconferencing and telephone calls over a globally accessible network, a digital storage area for selecting, retrieving and playing selected digital media files, a bid mode that facilitates audio and video communication during multi-task communication interface for conducting an auction and/or accepting bids, an interact mode for communicating a user with a live streamed digital media file, a link mode for directly linking to pre-identified URL addresses and an entertain mode for retrieving and activating digital media files, wherein the functions are selected based on user inputs or predetermined parameters and are activated by clicking a predetermined hot spot, covered by at least claim 17 of the ‘696 patent to the injury of CoolTVNetwork.com, Inc. Defendant is directly infringing, literally infringing, and/or infringing the ‘696 patent under the doctrine of equivalents. Defendant is thus liable for infringement of the ‘696 patent pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 271.

13. Defendant has induced and continues to induce infringement of the '696 patent by intending that others use, offer for sale, or sell in the United States, products and/or methods covered by one or more claims of the '696 patent, including, but not limited to, methods, systems, and apparatus for creating, using and modifying multifunctional website hot spots. Defendant provides these products to others, such as customers, resellers and end-use consumers who, in turn, use, offer for sale, or sell in the United States these methods, systems, and apparatus for creating, using and modifying multifunctional website hot spots that infringe one or more claims of the '696 patent.

14. Defendant indirectly infringes the '696 patent by inducing infringement by others, such as resellers, customers and end-use consumers, in accordance with 35 U.S.C. § 271(b) in this District and elsewhere in the United States. Direct infringement is a result of the activities performed by the resellers, customers and end-use consumers of the mobile banking functionality, including methods, systems, and apparatus for creating, using and modifying multifunctional website hot spots.

15. Defendant received notice of the '696 patent at least as of the date this lawsuit was filed.

16. Defendant affirmative acts of providing and/or selling the methods, systems, and apparatus for creating, using and modifying multifunctional website hot spots, including manufacturing and distributing, and providing instructions for using the methods, systems, and apparatus for creating, using and modifying multifunctional website hot spots in their normal and customary way to infringe one or more claims of the '696 patent. Defendant performs the acts that constitute induced infringement, and induce actual infringement, with the knowledge of the '696 patent and with the knowledge or willful blindness that the induced acts constitute infringement.

17. Defendant specifically intends for others, such as resellers, customers and end-use consumers, to directly infringe one or more claims of the '696 patent, or, alternatively, has been willfully blind to the possibility that its inducing acts would cause infringement. By way of example, and not as limitation, Defendant induces such infringement by its affirmative action by, among other things: (a) providing advertising on the benefits of using the Accused Instrumentalities' functionality; (b) providing information regarding how to use the Accused Instrumentalities' functionality; (c) providing instruction on how to use the Accused Instrumentalities' functionality; and (d) providing hardware and/or software components required to infringe the claims of the '696 patent.

18. Accordingly, a reasonable inference is that Defendant specifically intends for others, such as resellers, customers and end-use consumers, to directly infringe one or more claims of the '696 patent in the United States because Defendant has knowledge of the '696 patent since at least November 16, 2016 and Defendant actually induces others, such as resellers, customers and end-use consumers, to directly infringe the '696 patent by using, selling, and/or distributing, within the United States, methods, systems, and apparatus for creating, using and modifying multifunctional website hot spots. See Exhibit B, Declaration of Franz Wakefield.

19. As a result of Defendant acts of infringement, Plaintiff has suffered and will continue to suffer damages in an amount to be proved at trial.

20. Defendant continues advising, encouraging, or otherwise inducing others to use the systems, methods, and apparatus claimed by the '696 patent to the injury of Plaintiff. Specifically, since at least November 20, 2016, Defendant has had knowledge of the '696 patent. Franz Wakefield, President of Plaintiff CoolTVNetwork.com, Inc. sent Mr. Mike Schroepfer,

Facebook CTO a message at the 2016 Web Summit in Lisbon, Portugal describing the '696 patent and providing a link to a youtube video advertisement for one of Plaintiff CoolTVNetwork.com, Inc.'s products (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ApPQ-k8hYu4>) which at 1 minute 16 seconds in the video depicts U.S. Patent No. 7,162,696. Franz Wakefield, President of Plaintiff CoolTVNetwork.com, Inc. personally witnessed Mr. Mike Schroepfer read the message on his phone while he was on stage and respond to Plaintiff stating that he couldn't speak with Plaintiff today as he was flying out right after his presentation. See Exhibit B, Declaration of Franz Wakefield. Additionally, Plaintiff spoke with Julien Codorniou, Director for Facebook at Work at a booth run by Facebook employees at the Web Summit in Lisbon, Portugal on or around November 20, 2016. Plaintiff sent a follow up email to Julien Codorniou, Director for Facebook at Work thanking Julien for their conversation which mentioned CoolTVNetwork.com, Inc.'s technology and suggested that it would be a great addition to Facebook's products as it would enable clickable video that can be used as a monetization tool, to launch Facebook at Work from live and/or prerecorded videos, and/or to add a spontaneous call-to-action for viewers. Franz then provided a link to the CoolTVNetwork.com, Inc. video mentioned above and further mentioned that he would be interested in discussing a licensing deal for use of the ClickVideoShop technology by Facebook. See Exhibit B, Declaration of Franz Wakefield. If these communications were not enough to notify Facebook of its infringement of the '696 patent, by the filing date of the Original Complaint in this case, Facebook has had knowledge of the '696 patent and specifically intends to infringe the '696 patent. By continuing the actions described above, Defendant has specific intent to induce infringement of the '696 patent pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 271(b), and has further contributed to said infringement of the '696 patent by their customers by providing them with the Accused Instrumentalities so that their customers could

wherein said specific mode further toggles based on time stamps in said digital video or digital audio file;

Defendant provides a specific mode that further toggles based on time stamps in said digital video or digital audio file.

An Instagram or Facebook Story is comprised of individual screens, where each screen can be created with its own hotspots or “call-to-action buttons” or multiple hotspots or “calls-for-action” and then put together in one complete Story by clicking the +icon; whether the hotspots or calls-for-action are for "swiping up" to visit a website, "shopping stickers," to click to purchase a product, "polls," for taking a vote or bidding, and then tally the results, and/or "#hashtags," for visiting a post etc. The Instagram Software is built to run the Story on a 15 second timeline which is deleted after 24 hours. Each screen added to the story becomes a time stamp which runs on the 15 second timeline (adding videos instead of pictures can lengthen the predetermined 15 second time window); thus the function of the hotspots “call-to-action” depending on what screen of the Story is being viewed can vary depending on the time interval of the story and the screen being viewed by the user. This is direct evidence of the “toggle” claim limitation as it pertains to the ‘696 patent infringement claim. The ‘696 patent specification supports this evidence by stating, “The function of hot spots may vary during the running of a digital media file based on time stamps or other parameters. The action of hot spots could be determined by a length of time into a video, or beginning and ending time stamps within the video or software correlating to the video.” See ‘696 patent Col. 3 l. 45-50.
