19. TurboCode owns all substantial right, title, and interest in the ’295 Patent, and holds the right to sue and recover damages for infringement thereof, including past infringement.

20. On November 2, 2004, the USPTO duly and legally issued U.S. Patent No. 6,813,742 (“the ’742 Patent”), entitled “High speed turbo codes decoder for 3G using pipelined SISO log-map decoders architecture.” A copy of the ’742 Patent is attached hereto as Exhibit 2.

21. TurboCode owns all substantial right, title, and interest in the ’742 Patent, and holds the right to sue and recover damages for infringement thereof, including past infringement.

COUNT I – INFRINGEMENT OF U.S. PATENT NO. 6,799,295

22. TurboCode incorporates and realleges the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

23. At least as of February 13, 2021, TurboCode placed HP on actual notice of the ’295 patent and actual notice that its actions constituted and continued to constitute infringement of the ’295 patent. HP has had actual knowledge of the ’295 patent and its own infringement of the ’295 patent since at least that time.

24. HP has infringed one or more claims of the ’295 patent, including but not limited to Claim 1, pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 271(a), literally or under the doctrine of equivalents, by making, using, selling, offering to sell, and/or importing in the United States without authority cellular telephones, tablet computers, and/or other devices with 3G and/or 4G/LTE capabilities and that comply with the 3G and/or 4G/LTE standards as disclosed in the 3rd Generation Partnership Project (“3GPP”) Standard Specifications governing cellular wireless communications (e.g., TS 36.101-36.978, TS 26.071-26.999), and similar systems, products, and/or devices including the ’295 Accused Products.

25. Discovery is expected to uncover the full extent of HP's infringement of the '295 patent beyond the '295 Accused Products already identified herein.

26. Attached hereto as Exhibit 3, and incorporated by reference herein, is a claim chart detailing how the Elite Dragonfly, one of the '295 Accused Products, directly infringes independent Claim 1 of the '295 patent. Each of the elements of Claim 1 is found in this HP representative product as shown in Exhibit 3. HP is directly infringing, literally infringing, and/or infringing the '295 patent under the doctrine of equivalents. HP is thus liable for infringement of the '295 patent pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 271.

27. At least as of February 13, 2021, HP was placed on actual notice of the '295 patent and actual notice that its actions constituted and continue to constitute infringement of one or more claims of the '295 patent.

28. On information and belief, HP has induced and continues to induce infringement of one or more claims of the '295 patent, including, but not limited to, Claim 1, pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 271(b) by encouraging its customers and other third parties such as users, distributors, wholesalers, and retailers of the '295 Accused Products to make, use, sell, offer to sell, and/or import in the United States without authorization the '295 Accused Products (or products of which the '295 Accused Products are components) as described above and/or by encouraging those same customers and third parties to use the '295 Accused Products (or products of which the '295 Accused Products are components).

29. HP's acts of inducement include, inter alia: providing the '295 Accused Products to its customers and other third parties and intending them to use the '295 Accused Products; providing information, advertising, and instructions for these products through its own and third-party websites (see, e.g., <https://www8.hp.com/us/en/home.html>); providing potential customers with instructions on how to obtain these products and warranting the products when obtained through authorized distribution networks (see, e.g., <https://store.hp.com/us/en>); providing support and training to enable customers to use the '295 Accused Products in an infringing way (see, e.g., <https://support.hp.com/us-en>); encouraging customers and other third parties to communicate directly with HP representatives about the '295 Accused Products for purposes of technical assistance and repair (see, e.g., <https://support.hp.com/us-en/contact-hp> (providing consumer portal through which technical issues and concerns regarding the '295 Accused Products can be addressed)); and encouraging customers and third parties to use the '295 Accused Products (see, e.g., <https://www8.hp.com/us/en/business/elite-family.html>).

30. HP performed acts of inducement despite its actual knowledge since at least February 13, 2021, of the '295 patent and its knowledge that the specific actions it actively induced and continues to actively induce on the part of its customers and other third parties constitute infringement of the '295 patent. At the very least, because HP has been, and remains, on notice of the '295 patent and the accused infringement, it has been, and remains, willfully blind regarding the infringement that it has induced and continues to induce.

31. On information and belief, HP has contributed to infringement of one or more claims of the '295 patent under 35 U.S.C. § 271(c), including, but not limited to Claim 1, by offering to sell or selling within the United States and/or importing into the United States without authorization, one or more components of the '295 Accused Products (or products of which the '295 Accused Products are components) with the knowledge (since at least February 13, 2021) that such component(s) are especially made or especially adapted for use in an infringement of the '295 patent and are not staple articles of commerce suitable for substantial non-infringing use.

32. For example, these components include a baseband processing system for iteratively decoding data received on multiple data paths, the system including two soft decision decoders wherein an output of the last soft decision decoder is fed back as an input to the first soft decision decoder according to the claimed invention of at least one claim of the '295 patent. HP supplied, and continues to supply, these system on-chip components, products, or devices, including, without limitation, the '295 Accused Products with the knowledge of the '295 patent and with the knowledge that these components constitute critical and material parts of the claimed inventions of the '295 patent. Moreover, HP knows at least by virtue of its knowledge of its own products and the '295 patent that these components are especially made and/or especially adapted for use as claimed in the '295 patent and there is no substantial non-infringing use of the claimed elements of these components.

33. TurboCode has suffered, and continues to suffer, damages as a result of HP's infringement of the '295 patent.

34. HP has continued to infringe the '295 patent since at least February 13, 2021, despite being on notice of the '295 patent and its infringement. HP has therefore infringed the '295 patent knowingly, willfully, deliberately, and in disregard of Plaintiff's patent rights since at least February 13, 2021, at least by infringing with actual knowledge of its direct and indirect infringement or while remaining willfully blind to the fact of its direct and indirect infringement. As a result of at least this conduct, TurboCode is entitled to enhanced damages under 35 U.S.C. § 284 and to attorneys' fees and costs under 35 U.S.C. § 285.

35. TurboCode reserves the right to modify its infringement theories as discovery progresses in this case. TurboCode shall not be estopped for purposes of its infringement contentions or its claim constructions by the claim charts that it provides with this Complaint.

TurboCode intends the claim chart (Exhibit 3) for the '295 patent to satisfy the notice requirements of Rule 8(a)(2) of the Federal Rule of Civil Procedure. The claim chart is not TurboCode's preliminary or final infringement contentions or preliminary or final claim construction positions.

COUNT II – INFRINGEMENT OF U.S. PATENT NO. 6.813,742

36. TurboCode incorporates and realleges the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

37. At least as of February 13, 2021, TurboCode placed HP on actual notice of the '742 patent and actual notice that its actions constituted and continued to constitute infringement of the '742 patent. HP has had actual knowledge of the '742 patent and its own infringement of the '742 patent since at least that time.

38. HP has infringed one or more claims of the '742 patent, including but not limited to Claims 1 and 6, pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 271(a), literally or under the doctrine of equivalents, at least by making, using, offering to sell, selling, and/or importing into the United States without authority cellular telephones, tablet computers, and/or other devices with 3G and/or 4G/LTE capabilities and that comply with the 3G and/or 4G/LTE standards as disclosed in the 3rd Generation Partnership Project ("3GPP") Standard Specifications governing cellular wireless communications (e.g., TS 26.071-26.999), and similar systems, products, and/or devices including the '742 Accused Products.

39. Discovery is expected to uncover the full extent of HP's infringement of the '742 patent beyond the '742 Accused Products already identified herein.

40. Attached hereto as Exhibit 4, and incorporated by reference herein, is a claim chart detailing how the Elite Dragonfly, one of the '742 Accused Products, directly infringes independent Claims 1 and 6 of the '742 patent. Each of the elements of Claims 1 and 6 is found in this HP representative product as shown in Exhibit 4. HP is directly infringing, literally infringing, and/or infringing the '742 patent under the doctrine of equivalents. HP is thus liable for infringement of the '742 patent pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 271.

41. At least as of February 13, 2021, HP was placed on actual notice of the '742 patent and actual notice that its actions constituted and continue to constitute infringement of one or more claims of the '742 patent.

42. On information and belief, HP has induced and continues to induce infringement of one or more claims of the '742 patent, including, but not limited to, Claims 1 and 6, pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 271(b) by encouraging its customers and other third parties such as users, distributors, wholesalers, and retailers of the '742 Accused Products to make, use, sell, offer to sell, and/or import in the United States without authorization the '742 Accused Products (or products of which the '742 Accused Products are components) as described above and/or by encouraging those same customers and third parties to use the '742 Accused Products (or products of which the '742 Accused Products are components).

43. HP's acts of inducement include, inter alia: providing the '742 Accused Products to its customers and other third parties and intending them to use the '742 Accused Products; providing information, advertising, and instructions for these products through its own and third-party websites (see, e.g., <https://www8.hp.com/us/en/home.html>); providing potential customers with instructions on how to obtain these products and warranting the products when obtained through authorized distribution networks (see, e.g., <https://store.hp.com/us/en>); providing support and training to enable customers to use the '742 Accused Products in an infringing way (see, e.g., <https://support.hp.com/us-en>); encouraging customers and other third parties to communicate directly with HP representatives about the '742 Accused Products for purposes of technical assistance and repair (see, e.g., <https://support.hp.com/us-en/contact-hp> (providing consumer portal through which technical issues and concerns regarding the '742 Accused Products can be addressed)); and encouraging customers and third parties to use the '742 Accused Products (see, e.g., <https://www8.hp.com/us/en/business/elite-family.html>).

44. HP performed acts of inducement despite its actual knowledge since at least February 13, 2021, of the '742 patent and its knowledge that the specific actions it actively induced and continues to actively induce on the part of its customers and other third parties constitute infringement of the '742 patent. At the very least, because HP has been, and remains, on notice of the '742 patent and the accused infringement, it has been, and remains, willfully blind regarding the infringement that it has induced and continues to induce.

45. On information and belief, HP has contributed to infringement of one or more claims of the '742 patent under 35 U.S.C. § 271(c), including, but not limited to Claims 1 and 6, by offering to sell or selling within the United States and/or importing into the United States without authorization, one or more components of the '742 Accused Products (or products of which the '742 Accused Products are components) with the knowledge (since at least February 13, 2021) that such component(s) are especially made or especially adapted for use in an infringement of the '742 patent and are not staple articles of commerce suitable for substantial non-infringing use.

46. For example, these components include a baseband processor for iteratively processing sequences of received baseband digital signals according to the claimed invention of at least one claim of the '742 patent. HP supplied, and continues to supply, these system on-chip components, products, or devices, including, without limitation, the '742 Accused Products with the knowledge of the '742 patent and with the knowledge that these components constitute critical and material parts of the claimed inventions of the '742 patent. Moreover, HP knows at least by virtue of its knowledge of its own products and the '742 patent that these components are especially made and/or especially adapted for use as claimed in the '742 patent and there is no substantial non-infringing use of the claimed elements of these components.

47. TurboCode has suffered, and continues to suffer, damages as a result of HP's infringement of the '742 Patent.

48. HP has continued to infringe the '742 patent since at least February 13, 2021, despite being on notice of the '742 patent and its infringement. HP has therefore infringed the '742 patent knowingly, willfully, deliberately, and in disregard of Plaintiff's patent rights since at least February 13, 2021, at least by infringing with actual knowledge of its direct and indirect infringement or while remaining willfully blind to the fact of its direct and indirect infringement. As a result of at least this conduct, TurboCode is entitled to enhanced damages under 35 U.S.C. § 284 and to attorneys' fees and costs under 35 U.S.C. § 285.

49. TurboCode reserves the right to modify its infringement theories as discovery progresses in this case. TurboCode shall not be estopped for purposes of its infringement contentions or its claim constructions by the claim charts that it provides with this Complaint. TurboCode intends the claim chart (Exhibit 4) for the '742 patent to satisfy the notice requirements of Rule 8(a)(2) of the Federal Rule of Civil Procedure. The claim chart is not TurboCode's preliminary or final infringement contentions or preliminary or final claim construction positions.
